JUDGE M'MASTER SUSTAINS A WOM-AN'S CLAIM AS HOUSEHOLDER.

she Lived in an Apartment House, but Did Her Own Cooking-Other Court Cases.

Judge McMaster yesterday rendered a decision defining the meaning of the term "householder." The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company brought foreclosure proceedings against Martha E. Githens. In that decision the property was ordered sold and all above the claim of the insurance company was to revert to the former owner. The excess of the claim was $432. Mrs. Githens had had a large shaft erected over the grave of her husband at Crown Hill Cemetery. The monument was purchased of McDonald & McDonald, a Buffalo firm, at a cost of $2,500. The widow claimed the granite in the monument was not as represented, and the company brought suit for payment, securing a judgment. When the company learned that the widow had come into posession of $332, suit was brought on the judgment.

The widow set up the claim that she had a right to $600 exemption as a householder. She has been living alone in one room in an apartment house. She did her own cooking and work. The plaintiffs asserted that as she had no children dependent upon her, and was not living in what is commonly designated as a residence, she was not entitled to exemption. The court held that as that was her home, and she did her own work, she was legally a householder, and was entitled to exemption.

THE WILL ATTACKED.

The will of Rachel P. Hitchcock was offered for probate yesterday, and objections to the will were immediately filed by Charlotte M. Shideler. The will provides that Boyd M. Ralston shall be executor, and that he shall sell the estate and divide 7,083. Rabb's majority, 1,593. the money between the legatees as set out in the will. The will bequeaths $300 to Charlotte M. Shideler, $800 to Mary B. Weber, and the remainder of the property is to be equally divided among Rachel C. Young, Alexander O. Merrill, Mary F. Kalb, Jennie Himmell, DeWitt Merrill, Beatrice Merrill and Cuyler Merrill. The objections are to the effect that Charlotte M. Shideler is a sister, and Cuyler Merrill a brother of the deceased, and Rep., 4,487. Vaughn's majority, 1,076. are sole heirs. It is said the other legatees named in the will are not related to the decedent, and have no right to claim part of the property. It is averred that the property should be equally divided between Charlotte M. Shideler and Cuyler J. Merrill. The will was made in 1894, and the contestants assert it was obtained, if obtained at all, through fraud and undue influence, and that Rachel P. Hitchcock was of unsound mind when she made the will. It is also alleged that Rachel P. Hitchcock, who died Nov. 15, made another will with-in one year of her death that revokes all others that may have been made.

Two Divorces Denied.

Judge Carter, of Superior Court Room 3, yesterday denied two divorces, in the suits and Della Hutchinson against Charles Irvin Hutchinson. Grace Hinsley alleged that her husband was a drunkard, but it was also shown she knew this before she married him, and that another wife had procured a divorce a short time before they were married. As she was aware of his faults before she married him, the judge refused to grant a divorce. Della Hutchinson asserted that her husband did not support her, although he earned $15 a week. The judge said she should bring suit against him for support, and refused the divorce.

Claims to Be a Widow.

The suit for divorce of Payton H. Walters against his wife, Mary J. Walters, He Will Appear Before the Contem was heard by Judge McMaster yesterday. He alleges that his wife once threw a bucket of milk in his face, tried to cut him with a handsaw and at one time rented a another man. Later she returned home, he avers, and would lock herself up in a left the house. He says she moved to Indianapolis, taking up her residence at No. 40 North Senate avenue, and had her name inserted in the city director as his widow.

The Higgins Trial.

There will be no postponement in the morrow morning. Both sides say they are is ready to proceed.

Case Involving Technicalities.

Instead of oral argument in the case of Judge William C. Daly, of the Police Court, who was to appear before Judge Allen, of the Circuit Court, yesterday to show cause why he should not be held for contempt, briefs were submitted. It is Conners to the workhouse while he was yet in the custody of the Circuit Court on account of habeas corpus proceedings, The defense contends there was no intention to ignore the higher court.

Quigley Impeachment Case.

The impeachment proceedings against Superintendent Quigley, of the police force, were not heard in the Circuit Court yesterday morning. The defendants filed a motion to strike out the complaint, asserting that the proceedings should have been brought by the prosecuting attorney Samuel M. Sawyer, one of the affiants in the complaint, filed a motion to have County Prosecutor Ruckelshaus prosecute the case. Judge Allen has not yet rendered a decision.

Constitutionality Attacked.

A sharp contest is pending in the Circuit Court between the Board of Children's Guardians and Martin V. Wilkinson, a blind music teacher, over the possession of Zola Rankin, twelve years old. Wilkinson asserts that the child was given to him by her mother, who is now dead, and that he promised to take care of her. The benefit was defeated. constitutionality of the law providing for the Board of Children's Guardians is at-

Street Car Company Sued. Richle Bird sued the street car company yesterday for $5,000 damages. She alleges she alighted from a North Indianapolis car at Clifton street with a baby in her arms, and while reaching back to the conductor for a package the car started and the end struck her. She asserts she was seriously injured.

Local Court Notes.

Frank Williams yesterday sued his wife, Virginia Williams, for divorce, alleging that she deserted him two weeks after they were married. Joseph Foltz was appointed guardian of J. Roy Foltz, yesterday, and gave a bond | Buettner.

Beautiful Armstrong Park Addition

and far-sighted business men in Indianapolis. Armstrong Park has long been known as the most beautiful property

This enterprise is receiving the indorsement of the most successful about Indianapolis; is on the highest point of land about the city; is reached in twenty minutes from the Bates House on a line running cars every eight minutes, with no railroads to cross. The city is built up to within one square of the park. This superb property would long ago have been occupied by homes but for the fact that a ten years' contract has existed with the Citzens' Street Car Company, providing that the land should be maintained as a public park. This contract is now expiring, and the property, with its magnificent trees and picturesque surroundings, has been subdivided and is being purchased by the Armstrong Park Land Company on a syndicate plan. There is a share of stock for each lot in the addition. The lots are to be divided among the shareholders by allotment, each share securing a lot, costing members of the syndicate only $200 each. They are worth double the money to-day.

Shares $200 Each. Payable $10 a Month.

The Old Homestead, consisting of 3 1-6 acres with the residence, constitutes one lot in the addition and is represented by one share of stock. For prospectus or further information address, Men's Shirt Waists Next Year. Philadelphia Record.

This year we have merely seen the man n the ordinary negligee shirt who had nerve enough to remove his coat in public. But next year we shall see real shirt waists for men's wear, almost similar to those worn by women. The large shirt manufacturers are already making them up, and the salesmen will soon start out with their samples, soliciting orders for the spring trade; for the ready-made shirt business like most other large industries, must keep a season ahead. A Chestnut-street dealer in men's furnishing goods said yesterday that he understood the new garments would be a complete innovation. They are made with a blouse effect, the waistband to be connected with the trousers by buttons, just as in the garments worn by small boys. Some have broad yokes and others have pleats both in the bosom and in the back. "The manufacturers are not taking any chances, though," said the haberdasher. "The sales are to be outright, and cannot be canceled or modified to suit the demand, as is the case with most staple goods. If we buy them and can't sell them we're stuck. Do I think they will be a go?" The haberdasher merely shrugged his shoulders.

Once upon a time a farmer repaired to the city, and meeting a tall, dark man, accosted him cordially: "You are a bunco steerer, I take it," said the farmer. Oh, no. sir," said the tall, dark man
